Biography/Scope and Content: Buz Ivanhoe, as he was known to people close to him, was born Dec. 18, 1920. His mother died when he was born and his maternal grand parents raised him until he was three. At the age of three he was sent to foster parents in Medford Oregon, who raised him like one of their own, until he was 12. Buz's father, L.F. Ivanhoe, took him to Brazil so he could learn languages and he returned to the U.S. in 1938. Because he did not graduate or earn credits in the U.S., no college would accept him. The South Dakota School of Mines accepted Buz as a trial student for one semester. Buz graduated with a B.S. in 1942 and Professional Degrees in 1947 all in Mining Engineering from South Dakota School of Mines. Also, he earned his M.S. in Geology from Stanford in 1949. Mr. Ivanhoe completed courses in American Law and Procedures from LaSalle Extension University and oceanography from Scripps Institution, UCSD. This accretion contains slides, photographs, passports, certificates, graphs, memos, and a poster (1958-1981).
